

BATTLE SOON BEGINS FOR TENNIS CHAMPIONS

Classic Old Dominion Tournament Will Commence at Country Club This Afternoon at 2:30—Experts on the Courts Entered for Hermitage Cup.

The seventh annual Old Dominion tennis tournament will begin this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the courts of the Country Club of Virginia and probably the largest number of contestants ever gathered for this classic of the courts will participate. Chief interest lies in the contest for the Hermitage Challenge Cup, now held by R. H. Palmer, of New Jersey, holder of the tri-state championship and other titles. Should he win the cup this year it will belong to him, having been won twice by the present holder. Among the players are the most expert handlers of the racket in this country. Washington has sent some of the representative players of that city. The delegation from the capital will be composed of Louis A. Fischer, N. W. McLean, John Britton, John K. Graves, W. B. Wood, A. J. Gore and M. L. Steele. They arrived last night. The Doyles were expected up until the last minute, when they were unexpectedly detained on account of important business. This tournament is considered the most important one in the South, both in the number and quality of the entries attracted to it. The Hermitage Challenge Cup is offered in each class, and brilliant tennis is always on tap. In order to win this year the Washington contingent will have to defeat Theodore R. Pell, of New York; R. L. James, of Philadelphia; and H. Palmer, of Baltimore, and Richmond, of New Jersey.

HORSE SHOW WILL BE SPECTACULAR

Bookings at Olympia Already Assure Officials of Unprecedented Success.

London, England, June 11.—The fifth annual International Horse Show, which opens at Olympia tomorrow, will easily outstrip its predecessors from every point of view. It is positively dazzling in its promise. Already the bookings are such that the success of the undertaking, it being probably the greatest spectacular feature of the season, outside the coronation itself. The gratifying support given it by Americans, both in entering horses and in attending, has been a very important factor in the success of the show. The American team is much flattered by the support given it by Americans, both in entering horses and in attending, has been a very important factor in the success of the show. EASTERNERS MAKE BETTER SHOWING

New York, June 11.—The followers of intercollegiate athletics get a great deal of satisfaction every year by comparing the records of the Eastern and Western athletes as they perform in their respective championship meetings. As a rule the Eastern work shows a much better advantage, but occasionally the Western men either hold their own or do a little bit better. This year the Eastern work shows a much better advantage, but occasionally the Western men either hold their own or do a little bit better. HIT AT OPPORTUNE TIMES

St. Louis, Mo., June 11.—St. Louis hit Philadelphia's pitchers at opportune moments to-day, and won 6 to 5. CREWS TO BEGIN FINAL PRACTICES THIS WEEK

Will Be in Condition for Intercollegiate Regatta at Poughkeepsie on June 27.
Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 11.—Final practice for the intercollegiate regatta here June 27 will be in full swing by the end of this week, when all the crews take part of work early and late, have to be gone over, and the crew that has the longest time to give practice will be the Columbia, which always gets an early start on the others, has been rowing over the Hudson River course for more than a week, and has had the river altogether to itself. The first days of the week, however, will see a change, for Wisconsin's squad of varsity and freshman crews will come to the regatta at Highland some time to-morrow morning. Pennsylvania and Cornell will arrive on Wednesday, each arriving in time for practice on Thursday and Syracuse, the last of the lot, will get into camp on Thursday night.

Northern Neck Notes.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Lancaster, Va., June 11.—The Rev. and Mrs. Frederick William Claybrook, of Lancaster county, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Charlotte Templeman Claybrook, to Mr. Edmund Edmunds, of Kilmarnock. The ceremony is to take place Thursday evening, June 27, at Morattic Baptist Church.

Mrs. Mary Frances Forrester died several days ago at her home, near Nuttville, in the northwestern part of Lancaster, aged about sixty-five. She had been in declining health for several years, and had long been a member of Lebanon Baptist Church. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Wayland F. Dunaway, D. D., pastor and first cousin of the deceased.

Dr. Wickliffe Rose, of Washington city, scientific secretary of the Rockefeller Sanitary Commission, is expected to visit the Northern Neck counties within the next few days to get some idea of the work that has been done to improve the sanitary condition of the towns and villages of this section. He will be accompanied by Dr. A. C. Fisher, the sanitary inspector of this district.

The property of J. H. Wheaton sold last week by commissioners under a decree of court, brought $23,000. At one time Wheaton was one of the largest and most successful oyster packers on the Rappahannock River.

Pertinent Comment

BY GUS MALBERT
Looking over the batting and fielding averages of the Colts, and making allowances for any mistakes which may have occurred in compiling the data, one is confronted with that old, old question—What makes a team good? The Richmond baseball figures do not, at a glance, indicate a team which is really phenomenal. It is a third place by a scant margin, having won only one game more than played. Students of figures are here given the opportunity to make a time ask themselves a few questions.

That it is possible for a team to hit the ball like a lot of champions, and yet be a third place team, is a fact which has been proved. But when a team is losing games under such conditions something is wrong. There is just one difficulty in the local camp, and that is the fact that the team is losing games. The fact that the team is losing games is a fact which is not to be overlooked. The fact that the team is losing games is a fact which is not to be overlooked.

Logically, baseball is a business, and one of the most trying of all. It requires perfect strategy and the parts of the business machine must fit and work smoothly or else there can be no success. It is a business, and one of the most trying of all. It requires perfect strategy and the parts of the business machine must fit and work smoothly or else there can be no success.

If everything could be guaranteed to run smoothly, a head man would not be necessary. It is not the duty of a manager to guarantee that any part of his machine will work, for any part out, or broken, or unfit for use. It is his duty to discard the "cooler" parts and replace them with better and better and smoother running parts. It is his duty to discard the "cooler" parts and replace them with better and better and smoother running parts.

The baseball season is now more than a third over. We rapidly approach the halfway station, and still the club is not performing in the manner which it should. The fans know it. Something is wrong. The assertion made in this column that the team is losing games is a fact which is not to be overlooked. The fact that the team is losing games is a fact which is not to be overlooked.

It is conceded that the team is stronger in every department than last year. It is the first time in years that the team has been so strong. It is the first time in years that the team has been so strong. It is the first time in years that the team has been so strong.

Given a team which works perfectly one day and does the next, or what is known in baseball as a "hot" team, it is not the duty of a manager to guarantee that any part of his machine will work, for any part out, or broken, or unfit for use. It is his duty to discard the "cooler" parts and replace them with better and better and smoother running parts.

It is not within the province of the writer to state how this is to be corrected. Presumably the manager of the team has the right to do so. It is not within the province of the writer to state how this is to be corrected. Presumably the manager of the team has the right to do so.

It is rumored that Dutch Reville is trying to land a berth with the local Dutch is in good condition, and if he is, he can be made, he would help much.

The Colts go on against Roanoke for the first half of the week. We hope that we can get a majority of the games. The cry should be "Overtake and pass." It is a safe bet that this offense will score 50 much for the hitting department.

Now let's have a look at the fielding department. The same thirty men, all of those released are thrown out for the reason that they would bring down the average. They have had a total of 1,838 chances, on which 1,219 mistakes have been made, which is by no means a little. We find that the team has piled up 20 of these errors; Egan, 6, and McCabe, with but 6 chances, 6. A total of 22 errors distributed among three men, and when Egan, 11 and Baker's 6 are added, we find the whole error column practically taken up by five players.

Comparison with the averages of last year is not favorable to the Colts. In 1910, the team's batting average was .281. "Do figures lie?" and if so, where? STARTS ON TRIP TO NAPLES.

Heavy Hitting of American League
New York, June 11.—Hitting continues unabated in the American League. It is increasing, the Ban Johnson circuit now having forty-three players batting in the select 300 class. Three aviators—Mellus and Collins, of the Athletics, and Cobb, of Detroit—are hitting better than 400. In the National League only one player is batting above .300, and none is in the .400 set.
Jack McInnis still tops the American League and the world in batting, with an average of .443 in thirty-four games. Although Cobb would possibly be considered next, with .431 in forty-nine full games, and Collins second, with .403 in forty-four games, since McInnis has done much of his batting when put in as a pinch hitter.

MODEL LAW AND OF FEDERATION

Uniform Regulation of Public Utilities Will Be Sought at Coming Meeting.
New York, June 11.—Four railroad presidents, two Interstate Commerce Commissioners, a former Cabinet officer, bankers, manufacturers, college professors, lawyers and labor leaders to the number of two-score, will meet here on June 23 to frame a model law for uniform public utilities legislation throughout the States, according to announcement made to-night by Seth Low, president of the National Civic Federation. The committee will be known as the national committee on the regulation of railroads and public utilities.

In his statement, President Low said the federation takes it for granted that there should be regulation on the part of the public, and it is a measure that the committee may be able to prepare a model law, which will bring about reasonable uniformity in the different States. Another committee will meet June 13 to draft a similar measure for uniform State regulation of combinations and trusts.

Among those on the committee of regulation of railroads and public utilities are: Franklin K. Lane and B. H. Meyer, Interstate Commerce commissioners; B. A. Eckhardt, chairman of the National Railway Commission; John C. Bell, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; William C. Brown, president of New York Central lines; Daniel W. Brown, president of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company; Frank F. Smith, chairman of board, Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company; Robert M. La Follette, president of the Washington and Annapolis Railway Company; Warren S. Stone, general manager, International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; A. B. Garretson, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Conductors; Timothy Healey, president International Brotherhood Stationary Firemen; Way Company, president Southern Railway; H. C. Morrissey, ex-grand master of the Grand Order of the United Chapters of Commerce and Labor.
